IT IS HEREBY ORDERED, ADJUDGED, AND DECREED AS FOLLOWS, TO WIT:

I.

That Shasta River is located in the central part of Siskiyou County, California; that it has its source in three branches, which rise on the slopes of Mount Eddy at an altitude of about 6000 feet, and which unite to form the main stream at a point in the NW¼ Sec. 16, T. 41 N., R. 5 W., M.D.B. & M; that from this point the river flows in a general northerly direction for a distance of about thirty-five miles to its confluence with Klamath River; and that four main tributaries, Parks Creek, Willow Creek, Julian Creek, and Yreka Creek enter from the west, and six main tributaries, Boles Creek, Beaughan Creek, Jackson Creek, Carrick Creek, Big Springs Creek, and Little Shasta River enter from the east.

That the drainage basin occupies an area of about 850 square miles extending from the Mt. Shasta-Weed divide on the south to the Klamath River on the north; that Shasta Valley comprises about fifty per cent of the area of the basin and contains an agricultural area roughly estimated at 100,000 acres of which about 40,000 acres are at present under irrigation; that the continuity of the agricultural area is badly broken up by volcanic buttes and ridges rising from the valley floor; and that the major portion of the irrigated lands lie at elevations between 2900 feet near Edgewood to about 2400 feet north of Montague.

That the soils of the irrigated lands range from sandy loam to clay adobe with the former in its various phases predominating.

That the climate of the region is typical of the mountain plateau valleys of California, and in common with the climate throughout the State, is characterized by a wet and dry season; that the wet season extends from about October 1st to about April 1st, and approximately 80 per cent of the seasonal precipitation falls during this period; that the remainder of the year constitutes the dry season, during which time it is necessary to supplement the natural soil moisture with moisture applied through irrigation; that the seasonal precipitation varies from 12 inches on the valley floor to about 35 inches in the mountains. Thunder storms are frequent during the summer months, which accounts for the relatively high precipitation throughout the dry season; that the winters are moderately severe, the mean minimum temperature falling below freezing during November, December, January, February and March; that the summers are warm throughout the days but cool during the night; that the mean maximum temperature at Mt. Shasta City (formerly Sisson) ranges from 74 degrees to 80 degrees during the period from June to September and that at Montague ranges from 84 to 90 degrees during the same period; that the highest temperature on record at Montague is 108 degrees and the lowest is minus 10 degrees, a range of 118 degrees; and that the average growing season as measured between killing frosts is about 140 days.

That the principal industries are stock raising and dairying, and the irrigated lands in the area are devoted almost exclusively to the growing of alfalfa and meadow hay and meadow pasturage to supply these industries.

That the successful pursuit of these basic industries is dependent upon irrigation, hence water and the rights thereto is very essential to the farmers for the proper development of their lands; and that since the water supply of the stream system is inadequate for all agricultural needs throughout each irrigation season it is also essential that the rights to said water be determined that there may be an orderly distribution of the same to the rightful owners.

II.

That subject to the hereinafter mentioned definitions, limitations and provisions the relative rights based upon prior appropriation of the various claimants to the waters of the Shasta River and its tributaries, in Siskiyou County, California, are established, determined, adjudged and decreed as hereinafter in this judgment and decree set forth, said definitions, limitations and provisions being as follows, to wit:

1. That although all quantities of water hereinafter adjudged adn decreed to the several claimants for direct application to beneficial use are severally expressed in terms of continuous flow, nevertheless nothing herein contained shall be construed as limiting or restricting the right of any such claimant to rotate in the use of water, or the right of any such claimant to divert for limited periods of time convenient irrigation heads, and thus apply water to his lands at a greater rate than indicated by the quantity of continuous flow so adjudged and decreed; provided, however, that such practice of rotation or use of irrigation heads shall not result in the use by any such claimant of a total quantity of water during any thirty-day period in excess of the equivalent of such claimant's continuous flow allowance for thirty days; and provided, further, that such practice of rotation or such use of irrigation heads shall not impair or infringe the right of any other such claimant.

2. That the respective points of measurement of the quantities of water established, determined, adjudged and decreed to the several claimants, hereinafter mentioned, are at the respective points of diversion from said stream system, as hereinafter set forth.

3. That the term "directly apply to beneficial use" means the direct conveyance and application of water diverted to beneficial use without intermediate storage, except such regulatory storage as may be practiced for the purpose of equalizing the flow of water diverted to a convenient irrigation head.

4. That the term "natural flow" means such flow as will naturally occur at any given point in a stream from the run-off of the watershed which it drains, from springs which naturally contribute to the stream, from seepage and from waste and return flow from dams, conduits, and irrigated lands; as distinguished from released stored water and from foreign water directly conveyed to the stream from another watershed.

5. That the Division of Water Rights Map hereinafter referred to is the map prepared by the Division of Water Rights of the Department of Public Works of the State of California from its surveys made in 1922 and 1923, which map is entitled "Map of Shasta River and its Tributaries Showing Diversion Systems and Irrigated Areas, Siskiyou County, California", is dated 1924 and is on file in this proceeding.

III.

APPENDICES.

Explanatory.

For the purpose of showing the relationships of the several rights by appropriation to the use of the water of Shasta River and its tributaries established by the foregoing decree, chronoligically arranged summaries of the various rights, during the irrigation season and also during the nonirrigation season, are herewith submitted as Appendices I and II, respectively.

Appendix I consists of Table 1 to 11, inclusive, showing the relationships of the several rights during the irrigation season in each of eleven units into which the stream system has been divided. Each of these units can be administered more or less independently of the others during the low flow or critical period of each season, therefore the rights in each unit have been grouped together as shown in said tables. In the first column of the respective tables the relative positions of the various rights in each unit are designated by numerals. The second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth columns are self-explanatory. In the last column of each table the numbers of the sub-paragraphs of paragraph III of the decree in which the respective rights are defined are given.

Appendix II shows the relationships of the several rights during the nonirrigation season over the stream system as a whole. The arrangement of the summary is similar to that of the tables in Appendix I, except that an additional column has been included under "Amount", in which column the amounts of the storage rights are expressed in acre-feet per season.
